

It's always difficult to evaluate a case without knowing all of the details and the facts. That's why it's important to have folks come in and get all of that information early on.

Typically, attorneys will promise that they can evaluate a case without having read the records or knowing all the facts of the case, but rarely is that evaluation early on very accurate. It's important to know all of the details of the defense and of the medical treatment and that sort of thing.