

Keith Marcus:

When injuries, dog bites, any kind of an accident happens, you have pain and then you ultimately have fear and fear is anxiety and stress. They want someone to take care of their problems, and that means dealing with the insurance company and we are willing to go toe to toe with them and we are able to prevail.

Irving Blank:

A lot of what we do, it's not rocket science. It's experience and it's hard work. It's having knowledge of the law and a willingness to go to court. If you know what you're doing and you're willing to put the work in to do it, it doesn't matter what's on the other side of the courtroom.

George Naylor:

Some law firms will turn away any case that looks like it might have any issue at all or there might be some reason they're not going to recover on. We're not afraid to do that work.

Keith Marcus:

We won against Burger King Corporation, and Burger King hires the best lawyers and we ended up getting a very good settlement. I don't think it's settlement versus trial. It's prepare for trial. That's what you have to do. We get good settlements because we're willing to try the case and prepare the case. That's really when we get our paydays on, really our big verdicts are when they force us to try a case and we get four million bucks. Between Irv, myself, and George, whatever people throw at us, we can fight back.

Irving Blank:

We deal with catastrophic losses. Being able to help the client put their life back and that's the most rewarding thing for me.

Obreda Winston:

We're already going through a tough situation and then to have a caring lawyer who say, "Look, I understand you're going through X, Y, and Z. Let me help with this until we settled." That just meant the world.